

FIFTH GRADE WEEKLY PLANS

SEPT. 26-30TH

TEACHER: DR. FREEBERG

Virtues: Respect and Responsibility

Psalm: 15

Dear Parents,

This week there will be no literature assignments so that students will have time to work on their Odyssey projects. Students should try to spend some time on the project each day. The projects are due on Wednesday, October 5th. Students will share these projects with the rest of the lower school in an “Odyssey Museum.” They will also share the projects with grandparents on Grandparents Day. In composition this week students are continuing to write their own version of an episode from the Odyssey. The deadline for this assignment will be determined by the rate of progress we make in class. In addition to their own written version, students should practice telling their story from memory in an engaging way. This week we will also begin working on a short Odyssey skit to perform at the upcoming performance assembly on Grandparent’s Day. Students have the first of a series of spelling quizzes on commonly misspelled words on Friday. In history we will continue our study of the Renaissance. We will complete the final lessons this week and then begin to review for a test that will be given after Columbus Day weekend. Have a great week.

Sincerely,

Bruce Freeberg
